

Poppies

- Trace circle templates onto tan canvas.
- Cut out a variety of sizes.

- Cut out circles of burlap, larger than the canvas circles.

- Apply adhesive spray onto burlap.

- Push canvas circle onto it.
- Let dry. {I usually let it dry overnight as I don't like getting adhesive on my sewing machine needle.}

- Using a wide but tight zigzag setting, stitch around the edge of the canvas circle.
- Trim excess burlap.

- Fold your poppy in half, then in half again.

- Put some stitches in the corner. {You may do this either by hand or by machine.}

- Open up. Your poppy should have some shape now.
- Layer different sized poppies on top of each other.
- With a bead in the center, stitch this new poppy onto your sewing project by hand
